Architecture of Brazil Hugo Segawa,2012-12-05 Architecture of Brazil: 1900-1990 examines the processes that underpin modern Brazilian architecture under various influences and characterizes different understandings of modernity, evident in the chapter topics of this book. Accordingly, the author does not give overall preference to particular architects nor works, with the exception of a few specific works and architects, including Warchavchik, Niemeyer, Lucio Costa, and Vilanova Artigas.

Arquitetura Moderna Paulistana Alberto Xavier,Carlos Alberto Cerqueira Lemos,Eduardo Corona,2017 O guia da Arquitetura moderna Paulistana, organizado por Alberto Xavier, Carlos Lemos e Eduardo Corona, mapeia o cenário da arquitetura moderna produzida em São Paulo. Foi inicialmente publicado em fascículos na revista A Construção São Paulo a partir do ano de 1978 até 1983, quando foi editado em um volume completo. O livro, estruturado em fichas de obras construídas organizadas cronologicamente, inicia com a polêmica atribuição de primeira obra moderna ao edifício de apartamentos na avenida Angélica, projeto de Júlio de Abreu, de 1927, e termina em 1977 com o Centro Cultural São Paulo, de Eurico Prado Lopes e Luiz Telles. O livro apresenta uma série de edifícios e conjuntos arquitetônicos que são marcos da cidade de São Paulo: Edifício Esther, de Álvaro Vital Brazil e Adhemar Marinho, 1935; Edifício Prudência, de Rino Levi e Roberto Cerqueira Cesar, 1944; Casa de Vidro, de Lina Bo Bardi, 1949; Parque do Ibirapuera, de Oscar Niemeyer, Zenon Lotufo, Hélio Uchoa e Eduardo Kneese de Mello, 1951; Edifício Copan, de Oscar Niemeyer, 1951; Estádio do Morumbi, de Vilanova Artigas e Carlos Cascaldi, 1952; Edifício Nações Unidas, de Abelardo de Souza, 1953; Conjunto Nacional, de David Libeskind, 1955, entre outros.

Roberto Burle Marx Lauro Cavalcanti,Farès El-Dahdah,Francis Rambert,2011 Roberto Burle Marx (Sao Paulo, 1909-Rio de Janeiro, 1994) is known as a landscape architect, but also as a painter, botanist, gardener, chef and jewellery designer. He considered the garden to be one of the fine arts, as the adaptation of the biome to civilisation's natural requirements. This book introduces the realm of the full sensory experience. Burle Marx's work with plants becomes highly pictorial—everything is drawn, coloured and constructed. In this symbiosis between aesthetics and botany, Burle Marx is the master of both species and spaces. His work is the embodiment of the nature-city, a concept developed from the garden cities of the late 19th century, which has become compromised in the 21st century due to the compact city model. This new publication focuses on Burle Marx's scientific interest in the landscape and his relationship with the environment. Concepts that continue to be of major significance in contemporary landscape architecture, such as ecology, garden as an art form and landscape design in the urban structure, are some of the subjects the book deals with. The visual information of the book is complemented by the texts by Fares El-Dahdah, Francis Rambert, Jacques Leenhardt, Jose Tabacow, Lelia Coelho Frota, Andre Correa do Lago, Dorothee Imbert, Valerie Fraser and Gilles Clement.

City of Walls Teresa P. R. Caldeira, 2000 This is an extraordinary treatment of a difficult problem. . . . Much more than a conventional comparative study, City of Walls is a genuinely transcultural, transnational work—the first of its kind that I have read.—George E. Marcus, author of Ethnography Through Thick & Thin Caldeira's work is wonderfully ambitious— theoretically bold, ethnographically rich, historically specific. Anyone who cares about the condition and future of cities, of democracy, of human rights should read this book.—Thomas Bender, Director of the Project on Cities and Urban Knowledges City of Walls is a brilliant analysis of the dynamics of urban fear. The sophistication of Caldeira's arguments should stimulate new discussion of cities and urban life. Its significance goes far beyond the borders of Brazil.—Margaret Crawford, Professor of Urban Planning and Design Theory, Graduate School of Design, Harvard University Caldeira's insight illuminates the geography of the city as well as the boundaries—or the lack of boundaries—of violence.—Paul Chevigny, author of Edge of the Knife: Police Violence in the Americas An extraordinary account of violence in the city. . . . Caldeira brings to this task a rare depth of knowledge and understanding.—Saskia Sassen, author of Globalization and Its Discontents An outstanding contribution to understanding authoritarian continuity under political reform. Caldeira has written a brilliant and bleak analysis on the many challenges and obstacles which government and civil society face in new democracies.—Paulo Sérgio Pinheiro, Director of the Center for the Study of Violence, University of São Paulo and Member of the United Nations Sub-Commission for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights

do Brasil: melhor livro de 2006 Finalist Pevsner Prize of The Royal Institute of British Architects > Finalist Prêmio Jabuti: best art and architecture book _____ Lina Bo Bardi, the Rome-born architect, emigrated after World War Two to Brazil, a country where she undertook her professional career. The outcome of her personal experience and of a wish to get closer to the culture and ways of life of the people, Bo Bardi's creativity moved in the direction of an architecture that prized simplicity, spontaneity, the residual and the ephemeral; an architecture understood as 'an organism suitable for life' which incorporated everydayness and the energy of the people who use it. As a result she used the word 'substances', rather than 'materials', to explain what her architecture was made of. These substances are air, light, nature and art, to which the author, Olivia de Oliveira, adds time. The work of Lina Bo Bardi, then, is presented here via a huge array of previously unpublished drawings, images, writings and projects that enable the reader to grasp in a kaleidoscopic way the power and current importance of her architecture as a critical confrontation with established reality.

Flexible David Kronenburg, 2007-05-17 Flexible architecture adapts to new uses, responds to change rather than stagnating, and is motive rather than static. Understanding how it has been conceived, designed, made, and used helps us understand its potential in solving current and future problems associated with technological, social, and economic change. This book explores the whole genre of flexible architecture buildings that are intended to respond to evolving situations in their form, operation, or location. Crossing the boundaries between architecture, interior design, product design, and furniture design, this innovative book is the first to deal with the entire scope of the topic.

Dwelling, Seeing, and Designing David Seamon, 1993-01-01 This volume focuses on the question of how people might see and understand the natural and built environments in a deeper, more perceptive way. Why are places important to people, and can designers and policy-makers create better places? Contributors include architects, philosophers and architects.

A Brief History of Curating Hans Ulrich Obrist, 2008 This bestseller is now available in its 6th reprinted edition! This publication, now in its 6th reprinted edition, is dedicated to pioneering curators and presents a unique collection of interviews by Hans Ulrich Obrist: Anne d'Harnoncourt, Werner Hofman, Jean Leering, Franz Meyer, Seth Siegelaub, Walter Zanini, Johannes Cladders, Lucy Lippard, Walter Hopps, Pontus Hultén, and Harald Szeemann are gathered together in this volume. The contributions map the development of the curatorial field, from early independent curating in the 1960s and 1970s and the experimental institutional programs developed in Europe and in the USA at this time, through Documenta and the development of biennales. This book is part of the Documents series, co-published with Les presses du réel and dedicated to critical writings.

Access for All Andres Lepik, Daniel Talesnik, 2019 As one of the world's megacities, São Paulo has for decades seen an investment in architectural infrastructures that attempt to mitigate its open space shortages as well as fulfill the constant need for recreational, cultural, and sports programs. These buildings and open spaces - which can be public, semi-public, or privately-owned - arguably attempt to create inclusive places for urban society. This exhibition catalogue presents projects at different scales, focusing on their programmatic characteristics rather than the formal qualities usually emphasized in scholarship on Brazilian architecture. While many cities around the world are still chasing the so-called Bilbao Effect - the creation of a monofunctional signature architectural work by a famous architect that can attract tourism - this exhibition catalogue advocates for architectural infrastructure that adds programs of different natures, and that are aimed at social sustainability for local citizens. This aspect of urban growth in São Paulo - quite a vertical and densely-populated city; a city of great resources and also tremendous poverty; a city with high crime rates; a city with severe traffic issues; a city with public-health problems - illustrates how architecture and infrastructure can contribute to a city's urban development in multiple ways.

Recollected Work Armand Mevis, Linda van Deursen, Paul Elliman, 2005 Nothing about Dutch graphic design duo Mevis & van Deursen conforms to type. Praised for their innovative but clear presentation, they have designed everything from artist's books for Gabriel Orozco and Rineke Dijkstra to an official government stamp commemorating the marriage of Dutch Crown Prince Willem-Alexander, based on the number two, since the wedding date was 02-02-02. This book represents a range of work from the past 15 years, mostly books but also posters and smaller pieces. However, the artists have chosen not simply to present the work again but to make it new through collage and reinterpetative interplay, thus recycling their innovative design.
